A new name for your future

Before we talk about us, let’s first talk about you. You are about to graduate in the extremely promising technological fields such as naval- or mechanical engineering. Your knowledge, expertise, energy and flexibility make you extremely sought after. That’s a fact. And that’s why we at KAEFER are looking for you, so that we can together create new opportunities and drive the future success of our marine division.

Let us introduce ourselves (and you to a world of opportunity)

We are a global leader in all maritime insulation technologies, interior outfitting systems and upgrade services. Our areas of expertise can be found throughout the entire range of marine projects, including cruise ships, new built & refurbishment, navy vessels and yachts. As a family-run company for over 100 years, we are headquartered in Bremen, Germany with subsidiaries all around the world.

The KAEFER Marine Trainee Programme

The cruise and naval markets are booming like never before. This makes the demands for young talent in marine engineering and project management high. We are looking for the very best of that talent, which is why we created the KAEFER Marine Trainee Programme.

Want it all!

Taking part in the KAEFER Marine Trainee Programme is everything but routine. All participants can look forward to a diverse and changing range of maritime projects, both at home and at KAEFER hubs around the world. At KAEFER, we believe in a hands-on approach to training: one that values personal initiative and craft. We also offer unmatched diversity and opportunity, which guarantees that the programme is not only profitable for your future career – but an unforgettable experience in itself.

What’s in it for you?

During the programme, our trainees will complete various career focus areas, both in their own country and abroad. This includes different aspects of marine- and mechanical engineering, as well as exploring & training on the entire range of services, systems, products and projects. The programme lasts 10 to 12 months and stresses lean training and a comprehensive personal development program. Upon successful completion, all participants can look forward to an exciting and promising job entry as KAEFER Project Managers.
